CINEMA REVIEWS

Currently showing: Odeon George St, Vue Cinema

I (aged 34) laughed more than my son (aged 3) did. This is the story of chancer RJ (Bruce Willis) who, having provoked 'the scary bear', hides out with a group of woodland creatures who need to stock up for next winter but don't know how to deal with the new housing estate that appeared during their hibernation. He shows them how to exploit the human beings to the fullest, but fails to mention just why he wants them to gather quite so much food this year ...

If you can get past the idea of William Shatner playing Avril Lavigne's father, it's a good cast and script, with some great jokes - as it should be, as it is based on a pretty good cartoon strip. Jac, 26/07/06 film. Garfield and Odie stow away and arrive in London after Jon rushes across the Atlantic to propose. somewhat implausibly. Garfield is mistaken for Prince, the pampered pussycat who recently inherited a castle and is consequently the rejected human heir's worst enemy. Prince meanwhile is found by Jon, who mistakes him for Garfield and introduces him to the joys of lasagne and hotel-room tv. It's the Prince and the Pauper revisited, of course, but not the worst interpretation out there.
