JOBS OFFERED (163 more on www.dailyinfo.co.uk)

Project Worker

The Children's Society – making childhood better

£20,698 - £26,783 pa pro rata
Part-time post to cover maternity leave (to start October 2009)

The Children's Society is a leading children's charity committed to making childhood better. We work with children across the country, providing the right support at the right time. We commissioned The Good Childhood® Inquiry; the UK's first independent national inquiry into childhood. Its aims were to renew society's understanding of modern childhood and to inform, improve and inspire all our relationships with children.

The OASIS Project has been working in secondary schools in Oxford to provide educational and practical support to young refugees since 2004. The aim of this post is to ensure that young refugees in the 16 - 19 age group, some of whom are separated from their families, receive the wide-ranging help they need to make the best of their educational opportunities.

The Children's Society is one of England's most active and rapidly expanding children's charities, working mainly with children at risk on the streets, children in trouble with the law, young refugees and disabled children. We have recently launched an ambitious three-year plan that will see a 60% increase in income and a corresponding growth of work on the ground.

The OASIS Project is looking for an all-rounder with experience of working with young people, ideally with young refugees, experience of advice and advocacy work and with excellent administrative skills. You'll have really good communication skills, be able to take the initiative and have a good knowledge of secondary schools gained from personal experience. Educated to Degree level, you'll be able to contribute to project planning, use online recording systems and be able to write reports.

Hours of work will be 22.2 per week, job share Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Work base is mostly at Oxford School with some time at the Project office in east Oxford.

As well as a strong commitment to your development, we offer a generous holiday entitlement, a contributory stakeholder pension, childcare vouchers and flexible working.

To apply, please visit www.playyourpart.co.uk or call us on 0121 362 8633 quoting ref: S01465/DI. Closing date: 24th June 2009. Interview date: 22nd July 2009. All recruitment documents are available in alternative formats. Please note that CVs will not be accepted.

Charity Registration No. 221124
We strive to be an equal opportunities employer

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
New Media Production Assistant (contract)

We are looking for a New Media Production Assistant to provide production and administrative support in developing digital products. This is an excellent opportunity for anyone with experience in new technologies who is interested in developing interactive learning materials. Some prior knowledge of CD-ROM and Internet production processes would be an advantage.

For full details about this vacancy, and the skills and experience required to fulfil this role, please visit www.oup.co.uk/recruit

Salary in the region of £18,300, with a full range of supporting benefits.

To apply please send a covering letter, CV, and salary details to: Claire Townsend, Recruitment Executive - oxfordrecruitment@oup.co.uk - by 18 June 2009.

Please quote reference 09/125.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
Marketing Assistant

A great opportunity to move into a busy Marketing Department

We are looking for an organised, enthusiastic, and highly motivated team member to join this busy department.

As part of the Marketing team your duties would include:

- Managing the review copy process
- Producing marketing materials in liaison with marketing colleagues and authors
- Assisting across a variety of functions as necessary, particularly during busy times
- Checking marketing data lists and carrying out research to improve quality
- Updating systems, including web pages, and general admin
- Dealing with queries / representing the department
- Attending conferences and book launches

You will be able to work on your own initiative, as part of a busy team, and be highly organised and able to prioritise a busy workload. You should be of graduate calibre (or equivalent), have a very high standard of literacy and a keen eye for detail, excellent communication skills, both written and verbal, and a good knowledge of IT packages, preferably including QuarkXpress although training will be given. As a starting role, Marketing experience is not a necessity but enthusiasm and organisational skills are!

Salary in the region of £18,500, dependent on skills and experience.

For further details about the benefits of working for OUP, visit www.oup.co.uk/recruit

To apply please send a covering letter, CV, and salary details to: Becky McCarey, Recruitment Executive, oxfordrecruitment@oup.com no later than 16 June 2009. Please quote ref 09/131

The Insect Play

OUDS present strange piece by the Brothers Čapek at Trinity College, 7.30pm till Sat June 6th

It is a balmy summer evening, a light wind stirs amidst the trees and the air is filled with the delicate odour of the lilac. In the golden light of the setting sun butterflies flap their shiny wings, lustfully tease and chase each other, recite poetry and amuse themselves until one of them is eaten by a bird.

Such is the beginning of The Insect Play, written in 1921 by the Czech brothers Karel and Josef Čapek, and currently showing on the lawns of Trinity College. The play, using anthropomorphised insects, satirizes human greed, complacency and selfishness.

> The butterflies are sex-obsessed and hedonistic. Meanwhile, Mr & Mrs Cricket are happy with their new curtains.

A drunken tramp falls asleep in the woods. Woken up by an excited lepidopterist, the tramp suddenly notices the little creatures that flitter and flutter, creep and crawl around him and he starts observing them. The butterflies are superficial, sex-obsessed and hedonistic. The capitalistic dung beetles only care about their rolled-up balls of dung and dirt. Meanwhile, middle-class Mr and Mrs Cricket are happy with their new curtains. An army of red ants, led by a communist tyrant, wants to take over the world and starts a sanguinary war. Chrysalis, a narcissistic actress undergoing metamorphosis, finally emerges as a beautiful imago, only to last for one ephemeral dance. But despite this spectacle of futility and shallowness, the tramp concludes that life is worth living and he successfully defeats death.

A great play, a very nice production and many good performances. Especially Rob Jones as the butterfly Viktor, the Northern Mr. Beetle and the despotic red ant commander, as well as Alex Gilmore as the eccentric lepidopterist, the gangster fly, the red ant scientist and the snail, are real chameleons and give their various characters depth and wit. Also great are Samantha Losey's nymphomaniac and cruel butterfly Iris, and Charlotte Mulliner's Isadora Duncan-like Chrysalis. Flapper dresses, antennary headpieces and expressionist dances add to the Roaring Twenties atmosphere, and the luscious gardens of Trinity College provide the ideal backdrop for the play, especially on a beautiful sunny evening as on the opening night.

A Month in the Country

1850 - an explosion of passion on a Russian estate. 6 for 6.30pm in St John's College Gardens, till Sun June 7th

Arriving safely at our destination at 6.15, we got out picnic and chairs as advised (although most people were on rugs on the ground) and watched a man reading aloud from a book while a woman paced around him. Further along the lawn, other costumed people played violins, had mock sword fights and talked, their noise (and ours) drowning the voice of the reader.

At 6.30, however, a conversation started between man and woman and we were off. What followed was Turgenev's so-called 'comedy' A Month In The Country, which tells the story of the bored wife of a Russian landowner, Natalya, who falls in love with the student tutor hired to teach her son and disrupts the lives of all around her. Comedy? Both men who love Natalya have to leave and Natalya's young ward, Vera, agrees to marry a much older man to get away from Natalya's machinations. Not a laugh a minute this; it feels much more like Chekhov, although it was written long before Chekhov's plays appeared.

> The play is carried by the powerful performance of Natalya, whose brooding presence dominates all around her.

I cannot give you names as there was no programme, but I can tell you that the play is carried by the powerful performance of Natalya, whose brooding presence dominates all around her. She was utterly convincing - as she needs to be, for it is the pivotal role in the play. Fair or not, the other players felt like supporting actors: I rather took to the pert maid, Katya. There is no set, just a bench to one side of a lawn and I liked the way the far side of the lawn was used to show what was going on off stage – the tutor showing the son how to fly a kite, people walking and talking, servants flirting. I was worried that I would not be able to hear as I could not hear the reading at the beginning but, once the play had started, the words were quite clear.

Go warmly dressed and don't get there too late and I think you will enjoy this performance. I just hope they have somewhere dry to perform when the predicted rain comes.
