Global Classroom Course Writers - Oxford

Want to share your expertise on a global stage with very able young people?

We're looking for subject matter experts and academics to create short, focused, online learning programmes for our students in the Global Classroom.

Based on Professor Deborah Eyre's principles of High Performance Learning, the Nord Anglia Education Global Classroom is an innovative, contemporary and distinctive educational programme, designed to develop our students' confidence and ability as learners by enabling them to collaborate, inquire, create, innovate, and lead. Our online global learning community is a place where over 8,000 students around the world can encounter diverse perspectives and engage with new and challenging concepts presented to them by experts such as you.

Nord Anglia Education is passionate about education. We challenge and encourage our students to achieve beyond expectations and develop into global citizens. Our outstanding education professionals and our distinctive educational models open minds to possibilities and opportunities.

If you're a specialist in mathematics, science, English or the arts, we would love to hear your ideas for innovative and authentic 2-4 week programmes that you could design for our secondary students. We are looking for the development of novel, edgy, thought-provoking and tough stimulus materials and offer the chance to share these with young people who are up for the challenge!

If you have any questions about this exciting opportunity, please email Kat de Polo on kat.depolo@nordanglia.com.

Go to <https://www.jobtrain.co.uk/nordanglia/> to apply online.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

Journal Transitions Assistant

We are looking to recruit an organised individual to provide administrative support to the Takeover Programme Manager for academic journals. This role will provide support to ensure the smooth transition of new journal titles to the Oxford Journals collection.

The successful candidate will demonstrate: excellent communication skills, verbal and written; organisational and motivational skills; IT skills, including MS Word and Excel and meticulous attention to detail. Ideally you will have experience working with and using a variety of databases.

The successful candidate will also be able to prioritise workloads and meet tight deadlines; learn new systems and procedures quickly and work effectively within and across teams.

The salary offered will be in the region of £21,000 depending on the skills and experience. OUP offers a full range of supporting benefits.

Closing date: 27 August 2012

THEATRE REVIEW

Mikron Theatre Company on Tour - Can You Keep a Secret?

The Mikron Theatre Company's Can You Keep a Secret? opens with Bain, a destitute Yorkshireman, begging on the streets of London. He remembers the Ludite rebellion of 20 years ago and the terrible secret which means that he can never go home - "they were hard times, Mr Dickens", he tells a passer-by.

The play tells the story of a group of croppers (skilled cloth finishers) from Marsden, near Huddersfield and is based closely on the real events of 1812. Mechanisation means the end of the old cottage-based economy as production is centralised to mills where one machine can do the work of ten men. In Yorkshire, starvation leads the desperate croppers to form secret societies to smash the hated machines and mill owners secretly take delivery of more equipment. Meanwhile, in London, Parliament ignores the growing economic and humanitarian crisis whilst passing increasingly punitive public order legislation. The stage is set for tragedy.

Can You Keep a Secret is a tightly written drama using words and songs to distill the essence of the Ludite rebellion. The performance, in which four actors move seamlessly between multiple roles, was outstanding and was complemented by the excellent acoustics of Oxford Science Park's Sadler Building.

Although Mikron are taking this production northwards, Oxfordshire audiences will have an opportunity to see this gifted company with a work in Lost in the Plot (a celebration of allotments) at Cropredy (31st Aug - 1st Sep).
