BEHIND THE SCENES AT RADIO 4: REVIEW

Making History: A History of the World in 100 Objects

Oxford Playhouse, 22 Oct 2010

It is all over - are we the children of the end of history? Radio 4's series A History of the World in 100 Objects is over. Objects have been selected to cover the very broadest geographical area while telling a history of the world from two million years ago to the present day. The last tranche of narration has been broadcast. The last object is a solar-powered charger connected to a second hand mobile phone and a little square green lamp with an LED bulb.

FILM REVIEW

Despicable Me [U]

Currently showing at Odeon George Street and the Vue Cinema.

Superior casting and stunning animation (definitely worth the extra three quid for the 3D version) do compensate for a somewhat predictable and teensy tad derivative story. However, this is on the whole a delightful movie and one that should make you laugh aloud and perhaps occasionally have the odd lump in your throat.

Steve Carell is consummately brilliant voicing evil genius Gru, and Julie Andrews hilarious as his horrible mother. The concept of the east-European derived incompetent baddie whose plans always go pear-shaped has been largely borrowed by Universal from Disney's successful (and very endearing) cartoon Phineas and Ferb, in which
